The Vermont Connection is more than a robust network of individuals from the same graduate program; the Vermont Connection bears community, friendship, family, and love that moves past our vocations. This journal and community would not be made possible without the time and compassion given by countless individuals, communities, and alumnx - more names that can fit into a journal itself. The Vermont Connection 45 would like to acknowledge the following individuals and communities for their contributions to the 45th volume of the Vermont Connection:

The faculty of our delightful little HESA program who continuously create community through scholarship, love, and rage: Drs. Melissa Rocco, Tracy Arámbula Turner, Tiffanie Spencer, Brittany M. Williams, and Jason C. Garvey.

The wonderful friends of HESA who have mentored our minds and guided our hearts: C.V. Dolan ('13), Lindsay Furlong-O'Hara, Joseph Russel, Holly Buckland-Parker, and Larry Long.

The countless alumnx who supported the HESA program through their mentorship, wisdom, and engagement with TVC fundraising.

The library staff who continuously commit to this journal and its success: Dan DeSanto and Donna O'Malley.

The students, faculty, and staff engaged in recruiting the next generation of The Vermont Connection: Dr. Melissa Rocco, Chris Caswell, Grace Peterson, and Julian Armada.

The long list of graduate assistant and practicum supervisors who contribute in creating the next generation of thoughtful and engaged practitioners. You engage us to think critically, lead with compassion, and cultivate a better University.

For their thoughtful and rage-loving contributions to TVC 45 through the reflection and foreword: Gabi Cuna (HESA '23) and C.V. Dolan (HESA '13).

The dedicated and vulnerable Authors and Peer Reviewers - the Co-Content Editors would be lost without your commitment to this journal.

To the student activists who push the imagination of what higher education can be. We acknowledge that your labor is often invisible, yet your impact is revolutionary. Thank you for challenging us to create learning communities where all members may grow, develop, and engage in what we call the “marketplace of ideas.”

The staff who support these activists in justice, equity, diversity, and inclusion work on our campuses and office. We stand with you and honor the emotional labor you carry in your work.

While we may have rage, we also have love. Thank you to our colleagues, changemakers, revolutionists, the tear-it down-to-build-it-back uppers, dreamers, activists, family, and friends.
